National Poetry Association Selects Poem By Wesleyan Sophomore

The National Poetry Association has accepted "The Joke" by Roxie Arrington for publication in their Annual Anthology of College Poetry.

This Anthology is a compilation of the finest poetry written by the college men and women of America, representing every section of the country. Selections were made from thousands of poems submitted.

We congratulate Roxie on this honor.

The Joke

The nucleus explodes and atoms illuminate the sky laughing at the joke called life

*Man gives them birth
they breath and vibrate as unseen figments of endless energy*

They multiply and oscillate to the silent beat of doom with cunning knowledge of now and after now

*They gibe with ecclesiastical certainty at the false covenant
for their birth is man's death*

Dr. Strickland Reports On Campus Improvements

A number of improvements have been made on campus, and others are being planned for the near future, Dr. Strickland announced to the students.

Crews have been busy installing improved lighting in the study parlors in all the dormitories. The Wesleyan Alumnae Association is assisting with the refurnishing and relighting of the day students room.

Banks dormitory will be completely painted and refurnished this summer for next year's junior class. The other dormitories will be refurnished during successive summers, Dr. Strickland stated.

Three new walks were installed and paved during the summer. Two on the front campus and one leading to the new dormitory.

The class of 1947 left money to be used for a walkway, and presented the class marker at their second Chapel service. The marker was brought to Dr.

Strickland's attention and the money which had been left for the walkway was used for that purpose. The walk connects the loggia and Tate Hall. The road leading from the Library behind the dormitory, to Tucker road was paved last summer and parking lots provided for dormitories.

A "riding ring" for the equitation classes has been built and miles of natural bridle trails have been opened through the Wesleyan woods.

Echo Organ Installed

Mrs. Asa G. Candler, Jr., of Atlanta very generously gave the echo organ to be added to the magnificent organ already in Porter Family Memorial Auditorium. Work is progressing on the installation and plans for a formal dedication will be announced later.

Future Plans

Naturally, the most important project being contemplated is the addition to the Candler Memorial Library. A report on the progress made thus far appears elsewhere in this issue of the magazine.

A grant in the amount of $3,000.00 has been secured from the Board of Education of The Methodist Church for the installation of a modern language laboratory. The total cost will be approximately $10,000.00. It is hoped that additional funds needed can be raised soon for the language laboratory is considered an essential teaching tool.

Other projects to be planned as soon as funds are available will include the waterproofing, redecorating, and refurnishing of the amphitheatre in Taylor Hall.

In discussing the campus improvement Dr. Strickland extended a cordial invitation to all alumnae to visit the campus frequently and to actually see the improvements that are being made.

Strickland Is Asset To Wesleyan

Reprint of an editorial in Nov. 17, 1960 "Town and Country"

"It was just a little over a year ago that Dr. Martin resigned and Wesleyan began looking for a new president. We all wondered who would be chosen and waited anxiously for the trustees to make a decision. Then it was announced that Dr. W. Earl Strickland would take over as president on January 1.

Dr. Strickland has been with us almost a year now and has certainly endeared himself to the hearts of all Wesleyannes. He has met every situation with an insight and understanding which has grown not only out of experience, but also out of a sincere interest in people and their problems.

He has worked closely with almost every individual and organization on campus. Matters that have needed attention for a long time have been straightened out, and many overdue improvements have been made around campus.

But even more than these large-scale improvements, we have appreciated the sincere smile, and the fact that Dr. Strickland really knows each student as an individual and not just as a statistic. He is never too busy to stop for a chat or to joke with a student. His lovely family has also become an indispensable part of our campus life.

Dr. Strickland, this will be your first homecoming. For some of us it will be the last. You have been here such a short time, really, but it's hard to remember what it was like without you. And we know that "when the ghinkos change from green to yellow" next year and we return as alumnae, you will be here to smile and wave a friendly welcome back."

More Contributions Needed for Library Fund

Dr. Strickland's recent letter to alumnae announcing the plans for building a $400,000 addition to the Candler Memorial Library has received the enthusiastic approval of all.

The actual campaign for funds has not yet begun, but 226 alumnae have already responded to Dr. Strickland's request for support. A total of $6,713.20 has been contributed and an additional $2,030.00 has been pledged, making a total of $8,743.20 to date.

Dr. Strickland and a special committee have been working with Guy Lyle of Emory University, library consultant, and Elliott Dunwoody, Jr., architect. Preliminary plans are being drawn to include a new wing and extensive remodeling and redecorating of the present facilities. Air conditioning will be installed throughout the completed structure, according to Dr. Strickland.

Mrs. W. E. Young, librarian, stated that the library facilities will be modernized in accordance with the latest concepts of library service.

The improvement and enlargement of the library is to receive priority in accordance with the administration's efforts to maintain high academic standards at Wesleyan.

Dr. Strickland re-emphasized the importance of widespread alumnae support and urged those who have not already done so to send a contribution or pledge.

The Wesleyan Alumnae

Contrasted with today's horsewoman, Marguerite Copes, freshman, on the cover of this Alumnae Magazine, is yesterday's horsewoman, sketched by Dean Neuforth of the Wesleyan Art Department, from an engraving in "Principles of Modern Riding for Ladies" published in 1825.

A Lucky Horseshoe Hangs at Wesleyan

A lucky horseshoe hangs at Wesleyan with the reintroduction of horseback riding as a physical education course beginning in the spring semester. After an absence of fifteen years, Wade Stepp has brought his stables back to Macon. They are now located at Magnolia Hill, beside the lake on the Wesleyan grounds.

Mrs. Stepp, an expert horsewoman, will teach riding under the direction of our physical education department headed by Miss Margaret Stanion. It will count for credit as an individual activity, like tennis, fencing, or golf, students to receive one hour toward the four needed for graduation. The fee for this course will be $75.00. The horses will also be available for recreation on a rental basis.

The piney woods behind the college, whose firebreaks offer beautiful ready-made bridle trails will soon be filled with our girls on horseback. Already one catches glimpses of glistening black satin flanks and flying white manes, of twill jodhpurs and faded blue jeans astride broad-backed mounts.

This is a far cry from olden days of feminine riders depicted in a book now on display in the Alumnae Office. Entitled "Principles of Modern Riding for Ladies" by John Allen, it was published in England in 1825 and is the property of Miss Frances Strohecker, secretary to six Wesleyan presidents, including Dr. Strickland. Frances inherited the book, with others, from her grandfather, Edward, who was a physician who came to Macon in 1837 and was married in Macon the year Wesleyan opened its doors, 1839, and later became mayor of the city.

When she learned that horseback riding was returning to Wesleyan, Frances remembered the old book whose pictures she had enjoyed as a child on rainy afternoons. These engravings, now yellowed with age, depict the stages of mounting and dismounting, with the lady, in top hat, stock, and veil always assisted by a gentleman wearing a frock coat and crushed leather boots; the lady's feet are forever enveloped in a voluminous skirt.

Styles in dress have changed with the years; so, also, have ladies, for the book speaks of the "difficulties and delicacies" of riding for ladies, and of ladies of cringing and timid disposition. The horse remains the same, in book and in stables, handsome and proud, as if aware of his prehistoric lineage.

Mr. Stepp introduces you fondly to Black Boy and Ebony, two of the eight American Saddle Horses he will use for the girls. He will also take you to meet the blooded Tennessee Walking Horses he is training for shows. The smell of fresh shavings tingles in your nostrils as you walk through the boarded stalls, recently converted by the college from old brooder houses built of red tile. He will show you the tack room, hung with bridles and saddles and crops, next to his office; he will take you beyond freshly-painted white fence rails to the Little Ring, used for teaching beginners, and point to the spot where the Middle Ring is to be built, and up to the knoll where he will soon lay out a Show Ring. He will make you acquainted with his overseer, old Joe Stewart, in his employ for thirty years, who, with another groom, occupies Grooms' Quarters near the horses.

A third-generation horseman, Mr. Stepp served as a judge at the Wesleyan Alumnae Horse Show last year. It was here that he met and conversed with our president, which is where this story began.

Freshman Impressions

Anticipation and anxiety typical of any college freshman were experienced by me on my arrival at Wesleyan. In addition, there were preconceived ideas about what I could expect at Wesleyan—observations during high school week-end and impressions gained through associations with alumnae. These had led me to decide that Wesleyan represented what I wanted from college.

Now I know that Wesleyan is no novice at this game of orientation of freshmen. She anticipated our every need. It was during Orientation Week that I experienced my first real knowledge of Wesleyan. Four months later, the knowledge of what it means to be a Wesleyanne has begun to take shape.

The official opening of the college and the dignity of the seniors made an impression as we thrilled to the tones of the organ and the singing of the Alma Mater.

Every minute has been filled with activity. There have been floor parties, the learning of class songs, the Carnival of Clubs, introducing us to the extra-curricular activities on the campus, and study, study, study.

Christian Emphasis Week and Honor Week were two of the traditional fall activities. These presented an insight into the ideals of Wesleyan, and assured me beyond question that I had chosen the right college.

Certainly not to be forgotten by any freshman is Rat Week. After that experience, all of our anxiety, humiliation, and fright seemed more than worthwhile in the climactic moments of Rat Court. Always vivid in my memories, will be the friendliness and eagerness of upper-classmen to help us feel a part of school life. We realized that the wise seniors, jolly juniors, and sophisticated sophomores were once lowly freshmen and understood our problems.

The freshmen helped to plan a week-end houseparty for high school students interested in Wesleyan. If they enjoyed the weekend in November as much as we did, Wesleyan should have a large freshman class next year.

Then before I knew it, the Christmas season was in full swing. As I stepped into the candlelit dining room with its Christmas decorations and jolly old St. Nick, the beauty of it all took my breath!

I have learned in the past four months that the sunset reflected by the lake, long hours of study, pep rallies, inter-class competition, student-body unity, wonderful new friends, weekly chapel services, and the sharing of happy news or a package from home—all are a vital part of Wesleyan.

Phi Delta Phi Members Inducted

Two outstanding members of the senior class, Lynn Cochran and Norma Mullings, were officially inducted into Phi Delta Phi honorary scholastic society during a special convocation held December 8.

The program, presided over by Joyce Reddick, class of '55, president of Phi Delta Phi, was opened with the invocation by Dr. G. W. Gignilliat, a Phi Beta Kappa.

Elizabeth Winn, class of '25, a member of Phi Delta Phi, gave a brief history of the organization and its purpose.

Margaret Stubbs Stewart, class of '36, secretary of the chapter, presented Phi Delta Phi pins to the two candidates as Miss Reddick read the oath of membership.

Mrs. Ruth Slentz, a member of the faculty, a Phi Beta Kappa and honorary Phi Delta Phi, introduced the speaker, Mr. John D. Comer.

Mr. Comer, a Macon lawyer, whose wife is the former Mary Anderson, class of '43, graduated from Harvard in 1946 and finished his law education at the University of Georgia in 1949. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa.

Lynn, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. L. Cochran of Griffin, is a psychology major. She is vice-president of the Psychology Club, a member of the Glee Club, and editor of Town and Country.

Norma, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mullings of Atlanta, is an elementary education major. She is accompanist for the Glee Club and is a member of Kappa Delta Epsilon and Phi Gamma Mu.

Among other honors, both girls have been named to Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges.

Phi Delta Phi is the highest honor which can be awarded a Wesleyan student.

Wesleyan To Receive Portrait

A very valuable oil painting of Martha Wood Dunham has been offered to Wesleyan by her granddaughter, Miss Omar Short, of Washington, D. C. Martha Wood was one of thirteen girls who entered "Wesleyan Female College" as a freshman on the first day it opened. The painting was done when she was about twenty-three years old by a Polish painter of that period, and is exquisitely framed.

Dr. Strickland has graciously accepted the offer on behalf of the college, and we are anxiously awaiting this latest addition to our historic treasures.

European Tour

President and Mrs. W. Earl Strickland will take a group of Wesleyan students on a special European tour of eight countries this summer.

Leaving New York by air on June 25, the group will visit England, Scotland, Holland, Belgium, Germany, Switzerland, Italy and France before leaving Paris on July 27.

The tour has been arranged especially for college students by Brownell Tours.

Tenth Fine Arts Festival

Four programs by outstanding artists and a juried show of regional paintings were presented at the Tenth Annual Wesleyan Arts Festival held at the College on February 15-18.

Cesare Valletti, Metropolitan opera star; John Ciardi, noted poet, author and lecturer; the award-winning Merce Cunningham and Dance Company; and the well-known Bishop's Players were featured in addition to an exhibit of paintings by artists of Middle Georgia.

Lamar Dodd, head of the University of Georgia art department served on the jury of Selection and Award.

Student Aid Director

Alice Domingos With Students

Alice Domingos, A.B. 1940, has been appointed Director of Student Aid at Wesleyan College. She works with President Strickland and the Scholarship Committee in processing all applications for scholarships and financial assistance.

Alice worked as secretary to the Dean and Registrar of the School of Fine Arts from 1941 until 1948 when she became Registrar of the School of Fine Arts. She held this position until this fall when Dr. Strickland asked her to assume the new position.

Wesleyan, in cooperation with 300 other colleges, is participating in the College Scholarship Service. This service helps to determine actual financial need on the basis of a confidential statement submitted by the parents of any girl requesting financial assistance.

HAVE YOU EVER STOPPED TO THINK THAT . . .

the prestige of a degree held by an alumna of any institution tarnishes unless that institution can continue to attract brilliant teachers and outstanding students?

Parents Day

For each successive year since Parents Day was co-sponsored by the Wesleyan Alumnae and the College in 1955, it has come to be more and more meaningful for both the students and their parents, if attendance is indicative of its value.

March 18 is the date for the seventh annual Parents Day, the day when parents are invited to visit the campus, meet the faculty, visit the dormitories, and are entertained at a barbecue supper followed by class stunts.

Lamar Lectures

Four widely known writers of fiction and one recognized critic participated in the Lamar Lecture Series this year.

Katherine Anne Porter, Flannery O'Connor, Caroline Gordon, and Madison Jones each was featured on a separate program, then the four participated in a special forum discussion moderated by Dr. Louis D. Rubin, Jr., critic.

Wesleyan has published the symposium in a small booklet. A limited number of copies are available from Dr. Norman Charles, Professor of United States Language and Literature.

Drama at Wesleyan

The Wesleyan Speech and Theatre Department will present a children's play, "Peter, Peter, Pumpkin Eater" in March, with a cast of students performing in Macon, Atlanta, and Columbus early in March.

After the Macon performances on Thursday evening and Friday afternoon, March 2nd and 3rd, the play will be taken to Atlanta on Saturday, March 4th where the Wesleyan alumnae are sponsoring an afternoon and evening appearance at the Atlanta Art Institute.

The following Saturday, March 11th, the players will take their production to Columbus under the auspices of the alumnae association there. Merlin E. Bement will be director and set designer. Marvin Philips is in charge of the music and choreography.

A play for children of all ages, this production will include music, songs, dances, and complete settings. Written by Martha B. King, it affords an excellent opportunity for students to gain the experience of professional touring.

In addition to making live theatre available to more audiences, this tour also will point up the excellent program being conducted at Wesleyan and the skills being acquired by our students.

Mr. Philips, head of the department, stated that anyone interested in sponsoring a performance should contact his office immediately.

Set Designs Receive Recognition

Set designs for this play were included in a textbook "Children's Theater Play Production for the Child Audience" with credit to our Mr. Bement. The designs were prepared and photographed while he was working on his master's degree at Michigan State University.

The textbook, just off the press, was prepared by Jed H. Davis and Mary Jane Watkins, both former teachers of Mr. Bement. It has been described by Mr. Philips as the "first comprehensive book on children's theatre."

DR. ROSCOE STINETORF

Wesleyan Mourns Distinguished Professor

Dr. Roscoe Stinetorf, chairman of the Department of Mathematics and Physics at Wesleyan College, died Saturday, January 7, following a short illness.

A first honor graduate of Earlham College, Dr. Stinetorf was serving his fourth year as a member of the Wesleyan faculty. Students and faculty members attended the funeral services in a body, and a special memorial service was held at the college.

Dr. Stinetorf, 60, held the M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Pennsylvania. Prior to coming to Wesleyan, he had taught at the Boys' Secondary School in Jerusalem, Southern Union College in Alabama, Centenary College in Louisiana, North Georgia College, Catawba College in North Carolina, and Wittenberg College in Ohio.

He was head of the department of mathematics at Lander College in Greenwood, S. C. for seven years and of the department of Mathematics, Physics, and Pre-Engineering at Wagner College in New York for seven years.

Dr. Walter L. Moore, pastor of the Vineville Baptist Church in Macon officiated at the services in Macon. Burial was in Lancaster, Kentucky.

Dr. Stinetorf is survived by his wife, the former Miss LaVerne Doolin; a son, Roscoe Stinetorf Jr., who is a student at Clemson College; a sister, Mrs. Clarence Wright of Rockford, Ill.; two brothers, Virgil Stinetorf of Rockford, Ill., and Allison Stinetorf of Richmond, Ind., and several nieces and nephews.

Alumnae Council Meet

The mid-winter Council of the Wesleyan Alumnae Association was held on Wednesday, February 15, 1961.

The purpose of the Council is to strengthen the relations between Wesleyan College and its Alumnae, to act as a medium for obtaining and disseminating accurate information about the College; to serve as a forum for the discussion of Alumnae policy and lines of Alumnae activity and to formulate plans for the promotion of the interests of the Association.

The Council is composed of the following representatives: The Officers of the Alumnae Association; the immediate past-officers of the Association; the Board of Managers, active or retired; Representatives of the Fine Arts and Liberal Arts; the President, the Deans, and representatives from each of the four student organizations.

This group met at 10:30 first attending the Bishop's Players program, after which a business session and lunch followed.

During the day the Nominations Committee reported the slate of officers for 1961-64 to the Council.

Notice

Our By-Laws provide for independent nominations as follows:

"Nominations (for Alumnae Officers) may be made by petition; such petition to be signed by not fewer than twenty members representing at least three geographical sections and filed with the Nominations Committee at least thirty days prior to the annual meeting."

Glee Club Makes Annual Tour

Wesleyan's famed Glee Club has just concluded another successful tour. The group presented fourteen concerts in nine Georgia and Florida cities.

Under the direction of Dr. Leon Jacques Villard, the 60-voice group presented programs for high school assemblies and church groups in addition to their evening concerts.

Walter Steinhaus, professor of music education and cello, appeared with the group on their tour. "The Wesleyan-nes", singing ensemble, was also featured. Miss Sylvia Ross is their faculty advisor.

The girls were honor guests at a reception at the Wesley Foundation at Georgia Tech at the end of their stay in Atlanta. Prior to the reception, the girls attended the Tech-Georgia basketball game.

Membership in the Glee Club is by audition only, with any student eligible. This year's club is divided almost equally between Liberal Arts and Fine Arts students.

Another special appearance of the Glee Club was at the Ministers' Week at Emory in January when they sang at the annual banquet and one of the evening sessions for the thousand ministers in attendance.

Homecoming Weekend 1960

Homecoming is an important event on campus in the fall. Soccer games spotlight the competition of classes in athletics, and class spirit is at a high, healthy level.

This homecoming weekend is a time when the latest graduates return to campus for their first reunion as alumnae. They come "home" dressed up in their hats and heels yet squealing with joy like college girls at their first sight of former roommates and friends after their six months separation.

Following the games, these newest alumnae are entertained at a coffee in the Alumnae Office. They are honor guests at the homecoming banquet, and that night attend the homecoming dance. Joyce Veal, a senior from Millen, Georgia, was this year's homecoming queen, and she and her court were presented at the dance.

Helena Campbell Is Honored

Helena Eastman (Ogden) Campbell was born in Eastman, Georgia, a little city named for her maternal grandfather. She was a member of the class of 1897, and a pupil of "Miss Mollie" Mason, beloved teacher of art at Wesleyan for 24 years.

She began the Campbell Art Collection at Wesleyan in 1934 by the simple process of writing to one of her artist friends and asking "Wouldn't you like to give my alma mater one of your lovely paintings?" The friend would and did. Through her inspired and untiring efforts, every year since then additions have been made to the collection until it is worth today thousands of dollars and represents the work of many well-known contemporary painters and sculptors. The latest gift was "The Christian Martyr", a life size figure by Pietro Montana. This famous artist had previously given three pieces of sculpture to the collection: "Messalina", "Ideal Head" and "Simplicity."

The collection is not housed in one building, but adds beauty, culture, and pleasure to various spots all over the campus: the President's home and office; the new Fine Arts Building where the sculpture can be seen in one of the galleries; the Students' Parlors where hangs the largest number of paintings in the collection; the Dean's office; the Alumnae Office and other offices in Tate; and in the small dining room where special guests are entertained.

At Commencement on June 3, 1950, Helena was awarded the Alumnae Distinguished Achievement Award which reflects honor upon Wesleyan College as being "inspiring in her loyalty to Wesleyan; magnificent in her giving."

Her latest honor was the citation in "Who's Who Among American Women". As reported in the fall Phi Mu magazine: "Artist - Wesleyan portrait painter. For many years Helena has been an outstanding artist doing most of her work in portraiture and still-life, mostly flowers. This year she received first prize for portraits in the annual exhibition of the Crestwood, N. Y. Woman's Club. It has been her hobby for a long time to arrange art exhibits in public places. She is a member of many art clubs and associations, and exhibits widely. She has also written magazine and newspaper articles on art."

Wesleyan is proud of this recognition that has come to her distinguished alumna.

Macon Club Co-sponsored Opera

The Macon Wesleyan Alumnae Club and the Macon Grand Opera Association co-sponsored the famed Verdi Opera, "Rigoletto", one of four offered during the season by the New York Opera Festival.

Several music students from Wesleyan College participated in the opera which was presented in the Porter Family Memorial Auditorium. Mr. Norman McLean of the Wesleyan music department was notified the morning of the opera that the director would like to have four pages and two guards, thus Homer Scarborough and Tommy Riner played guards, and Misses Jackie Turner, Julianne Snelling, Beverly Hall and Charlotte Potts were the pages.

The production was noteworthy for its excellent casting, authentic costuming and adequate scenery. For those who had the privilege of attending this opera, it was a high-light of the holiday season. The excellent performance of the cast put everyone in a gay mood.

The Macon Club and the Macon Grand Opera Association deserve much praise for bringing such an outstanding opera to Macon.

ATLANTA CLUB

On January 21 the Atlanta Wesleyan Club with Margaret Woodward Thrower, president, entertained the high school girls who are interested in Wesleyan and their mothers at a coffee at the lovely home of Helen McCrary Randall on West Paces Ferry Road.

It was well attended and Miss Glenn of Public Relations accompanied by Florence Trimble Jones from the Alumnae Office, showed colored slides of different phases of college life.

Columbus Club

As the Alumnae Magazine goes to press we have received word from Marjorie Potts Durden, president of the Columbus Club, that a luncheon will be held on February 9th at St. Paul's Methodist Church. They are planning to have a one-act play presented by the Wesleyan Drama Department.

Personals

The Emmett Johnsons, former professors at Wesleyan have written the following interesting news of themselves: "We are spending a year away from our Island home for a very good reason. We are helping take care of little Linda Carolyn Johnson, born June 30, 1960, whose mother Mae (Voight) Johnson interns at Grady hospital. So you see, we are really needed—and so happy in being needed. Morgan, our son, is trying to finish a Doctor of Education this year, for the sailing date for Africa will be late summer or fall."

Mrs. Robert L. Wiggins, former Admissions Counselor for Wesleyan in the state of Florida, is ill in the University Hospital, Durham, North Carolina.

Mrs. Frank Estes, former Dean of Women at Wesleyan, has been confined at the Athens General Hospital with a fractured leg. Her address is Comer, Georgia.

Dr. Richard H. Klemer, former professor at Wesleyan, came by the college for a short visit recently on his way from a vacation in Miami to his new position at the University of Alabama where he will be Associate Professor of Family Relations in the school of Home Economics. His wife and daughter accompanied him.

The Macon Telegraph recently carried a group picture of four attractive young matrons who were to attend a three day meeting for Junior Leagues in Region V to be held in Savannah. They were: Virginia (McClellan) McCowen, 1944, who is now serving in the Macon Junior League as first vice-president; Mary (Nunn) Domingos, 1946, who is recording secretary; Jane (Spearman) Struby, 1946, and Jo Banks (McKay) Sheftall, 1944, who attended as representatives.

All four of these Wesleyan Alumnae are leaders in the Macon Community, and active in the Macon Wesleyan Club. Virginia, who is the president-elect of the Junior League for next year, will finish her three year term as president of the National Wesleyan Alumnae Association next June.

Wesleyan is proud of these alumnae.

Three Wesleyan Alumnae have been elected officers for the coming year of the Macon Council on World Affairs. They are: Freda (Kaplan) Nadler, 1926, vice-chairman; Nell (Richards) Sams, 1940, secretary; Linda (Anderson) Lane, 1919, member of the nominating committee.

These alumnae have been very active in this organization which last year received national recognition, and have contributed much to its success.

Alumnae Employees Matching Gifts

A large number of companies have adopted a plan of matching—dollar for dollar—gifts made to colleges and universities by their employees.

If you or your husband work for a company which has a gift-matching program, you can double your gift to Wesleyan at no extra cost to you!

Class Notes

Nannette (Carter) Smith, author of a new book of poems, "Sunlight and Shadow", was named writer of the month by the Atlanta Writers Club at its November meeting. Nannette is the author of two previous books of poems, "Until the Night" and "Lines for Lindsey and Cut-outs for Carter", a book for children and dedicated to her grandsons. She is a member of the Laramore-Radar Poetry Group of Miami, The Poetry Society of America, National League of American Pen Women, Poetry Society of Georgia, Poetry Society of Great Britain and America, the Atlanta Writers Club, and is currently president of the Quill Club of Atlanta.

Woodie (Schley) Campbell, although 77 years old, served as a pollworker in Columbus, Ga., at the November presidential election. She has worked the polls for so many national, state, city, and county elections that she says she has lost count of the exact number, but she was first asked to serve as a worker in the 1920's. County poll managers have long sought her services because they say "she brought intelligence and integrity to the job, and has become the poll workers' top public asset." She likes her job because it gives her an opportunity to see people she might not otherwise meet, although she has met and worked with people of all levels in a lifetime of unselfish service to her community and church. Woodie is now the official visitor for the First Baptist Church in Columbus, calling on the "sick, the sorrowful, and the shut-ins." In November, she was selected to receive the Columbus Exchange Club's "Golden Deeds Award" for her unselfish personal service to others.

Marvin Mobley of West Point, Ga., died on January 13, 1961, and we extend our deepest sympathy to his sisters: Lucy (Mobley) Moore, 1915; Sarah Mobley, 1919; Willie (Mobley) Dilling, 1925. The Mobley sisters also recently lost their mother who lived in Covington, Ga.

'17

We are looking forward to a book which is soon to be published by Elizabeth (Davenport) Plant. Although this will be her first book to be published, she has sold a number of articles and poems to magazines and newspapers. Her work has been published in the Macon papers, the New York Times, Chattanooga papers, Vogue Magazine, The Georgia Review, the Junior League Magazine, Woman's Day, American Legion Monthly, Ladies Home Journal, McCalls, and special trade magazines. The book, as yet unnamed, will include informal essays, short stories, and light verse.

Irene (Sewell) Hobby, past president of the Alumnae Association, present member of the Board of Managers and Trustee of Wesleyan College, has found the time to launch a specialty shop for epicures in Atlanta—Hobby—Honey—with the slogan "honey in some way every day." The honey is sold at Fools' Paradise Apiaries in attractive gift wrapped jars with a folder of honey receipts attached. Blackberry jelly is also sold from this Hobby Country Kitchen at 5000 Riverview Road, NW, Atlanta 5, Ga.

We wish Irene every success in this unique and clever business venture.

The husband of Mary Jane (McGinnis) Carter has been made Executive Vice-President of the Pepperell Manufacturing Co., the maker of famous sheets, and they have been moved to Boston. Congratulations! Her son, Homer Carter, Jr., lives in Riverside, Conn., and works in New York. She is proud of her four grandchildren.

'26

Cubbedge Snow, husband of Frances (Cater) Snow, recently received the Macon Bar Association's Lawyer of the Year Award for "outstanding unselfish public service" during 1960. Throughout his 40 years as a lawyer, he has engaged in general civil practice and is widely known as a trial lawyer. They have two children, Cubbedge, Jr., also a Macon lawyer in the same firm with his father, and Mrs. Henry Clay.

The son of Bessie Will (Elrod) Unger, Robert F. Unger, received the honor of being elected national president of the Collegiate Council for the United Nations at its annual National Institute meeting in New York City. He succeeds John R. Baettiger, grandson of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, as head of the Collegiate Council for the current academic year.

The Collegiate Council was established in 1946 by a group of students who realized their responsibility for building international cooperation and a strong United Nations. It now has member groups of some 300 plus campuses throughout the United States.

Robert graduated from Emory University last June, and planned to enter the University of Maryland Law School in September.

We know Bessie Will is proud of her brilliant and handsome son.

Mary (Lester) Brooks is on a foreign assignment with her husband who is with the J. G. White Engineering Corporation, advisers to the Free China Government in co-operation with ICA. She is finding it different, but quite interesting. She was among the group of North American women who were recently presented to Madam Chiang. She found her to be a very charming person who well remembers her stay at Wesleyan. Everyone there seems to be conscious of the need for education and the students work hard to gain the privilege of going to the best schools. They are very interested in learning English so as to be able to study in the United States should the opportunity arise. English is taught in all of the schools and many of the wives of Americans there give some of their time to help, especially with the pronunciation.

'30

Deepest sympathy to Dorothy (Redwine) Black who recently lost her husband, Lloyd H. Black. He had been a sales representative for E. R. Squibb & Sons since 1931. Among his survivors are two sons, Lloyd H. Black, Jr., and William E. Black.

'31

Mary (Guttenberger) Illges is heading the women's division of United Givers' Fund Drive in Columbus, Ga., this year.

'32

Mae (Ethridge) Cassidy of Macon has been chosen from more than 3,500 women employed at Robins Air Force Base as their nominee for the First Annual Federal Womans Award. Her official title is Deputy Assistant for Procurement in the WRAMA Procurement and Production Directorate, the group which purchases the many supplies, equipment and services for the giant air base.

Eligibility for the coveted award is based on important achievements; outstanding accomplishments; and important contributions to administrative, social, scientific or technical progress.

She has charge of all purchases and contractual documents involving sums of from $10,000.00 up into the millions of dollars. In 1958, she was listed in the first edition of Who's Who of American Women, and also in the same year received a sustained superior performance award. In 1960, she received an outstanding performance award.

Mae, who holds one of the three top positions for women at Robins, recently completed the Warfare Systems Course at the Air University at Maxwell Air Force Base where she was the only woman in the class.

"Procurements is the most fascinating work a person can do" she claims, and it is a good field for women, providing an excellence chance for advancement.

We congratulate her on her outstanding success in her job, and wish her luck in the competition.

'33

Elsie Lowden Maxwell announces the birth of a granddaughter on December 29, 1960. The baby's mother is the former Susan Virginia Maxwell, now Mrs. Lyman Brainerd, Jr. of Cambridge, Mass.

Emily Dozier Knott is the proud grandmother of a granddaughter born January 10, 1961. The baby's mother is the former Jean Knott, now Mrs. J. Maynard Poythress.

Dr. Aaron E. Margulis, a prominent Sante Fe, New Mexico, physician and husband of Elizabeth (Stayer) Margulis, died on December 31st after a long illness. We extend to her our deepest sympathy. In addition to being a practicing physician, Dr. Margulis was a talented musician, a former professor of bacteriology and pathology at Columbia University, and was scientific editor of a medical journal.

We were sorry to learn that Eleanor (McCrary) Tarleton lost her father, Mr. G. M. McCary on October 22, and extend to her our sincerest sympathy. Eleanor is medical technician in charge of the laboratory of the Lauderdale Medical Center, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. Her husband is a staff writer for the Ft. Lauderdale "News" under the by-line "Bill Tarleton." She has one son, Wyatt—called Bill, who will be fifteen next April and is six feet tall.

Clyde (Green) Jones was recently guest pianist with Mr. Ernest Edwards at the Southern Cotton Manufacturers Convention at the Biltmore Hotel, Asheville, N. C.

Sanford (Birdsey) McGrail had her first New York one-man show of paintings at the "Ageis Gallery" in November. She also exhibited her paintings at the "Earl and McDougal Gallerys." Sanford studied painting with Emile Holzhauer at Wesleyan and later was a student at L'Ecole des Beaux Arts, Fontainebleau, France. She has also studied at the Art Students' League in New York City. She has won numerous prizes including a tri-color from the Bronxville Woman's Club earlier this year. As a member of the Bronxville Junior League, she has taught painting and art appreciation for the past two years to especially gifted children in a Yonkers public school. New York critics have said of her work: "Watercolors of an emotional quality that is abstract expressionism and oils known for their sensual paint quality and color."

Joyce was graduated magna cum laude in 1955, was a member of Phi Delta Phi honorary society, and was named to the collegiate Who's Who. She continued her studies at Smith College in Northampton, Mass., where she received a master of science degree.

Mr. Schafer is employed as a computer programmer at Robins Air Force Base after serving in the United States Army and seeing active duty in the Korean War. The couple will live in Macon and Joyce will continue her work at Wesleyan.

Rosalie (Voight) Johnson and her husband, Morgan, will be commissioned as missionaries of the Methodist Church on January 20, 1961. They are to be commended for their long years of study in preparation for their work as missionaries. Rosalie will complete her internship at Grady Hospital this August and her dream of becoming a medical missionary will be a reality. Morgan is completing his doctoral dissertation on visual aids for mission schools in Southern Rhodesia. They hope to return to the mission field in Africa in the late summer or fall.

News from Jere (House) Irby: "My husband and I have bought an old rambling house right on the edge of Blackstone, Virginia, and I have renamed our lane "Peachtree Street" in honor of my state. By the way, we have lots of room, and would so much like to have fellow "old grads" visit us anytime. I am so pleased that two of my classmates, Marianne Morris and Arline Atkins, are now in the employ of our Alma Mater. I have to admit, I "sorta" envy them that."

'57

Jean Middlebrooks won $2,100 and an expensive hi-fi set on a national television show "The Price is Right." Several months ago she won over $2,000 on another nationwide TV quiz show.

Jo (Tyron) Lange has written the office a newsy letter which we quote in part:

"While teaching art in Savannah, I met my husband-to-be, an Air Force boy stationed there. On July 27, 1958, I became Mrs. Charles Lange. We lived in Savannah a short time, then moved to Waukesha, Wisconsin, which is Chuck's home town. Almost immediately I became art teacher for five different elementary schools. My close friends will remember I always wanted to teach young children. After two wonderful and rewarding years of teaching, I learned duty called at home.

Now we have a two months old boy; a bright baby with devilish eyes and dark red hair named Christopher Todd.

My husband will receive his degree from Carroll College this June, and is also purchasing agent for Electronic Secretary Industries."

We hope to see Jo on her trip south next summer.
